

Notification about the usage of cookies

We use cookies in order to distinguish you from other users of our resource. This allows you to provide a convenient viewing of our site as well as gives you the opportunity to improve it.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small pieces of data that are stored in the browser of a computer, mobile phone or other device after visiting websites. Cookies are widely used to keep websites running and collect statistics.

How do we use cookies?

The information we collect through cookies helps us analyze how our website is used so that we can make it as user-friendly and functional as possible.

Personal data is stored in cookies if you have agreed to their usage. This provides a secure login to your personal account, which is technically necessary.

The website collects cookies of the following types:

- session cookies (deleted automatically after the end of the session)
- permanent cookies (stored in the user's browser after the end of the session).

The type of cookies and their functions

- Technical cookies are necessary for the normal operation of certain areas of the website. They also allow you to distribute the load on servers, collect information about user preferences regarding the use of cookies, etc. Cookies in this category include both session files and permanent cookies.

- We use web analytics tools and related cookies for the purpose of general analysis of the website usage and obtaining initial data to improve our offerings. The information, obtained in this case, can be transmitted in anonymous form to the server of the web analytics service, stored and processed there. We may use analytical tools and related cookies from the following service providers:

- o Google Analytics: Google Privacy Policy

- o Yandex.Metrica: Yandex Privacy Policy

Yandex Privacy Policy Cookies, that we store through the website, do not contain data on the basis of which your identity can be identified. Information about disabling the ability to store cookies as well as the procedure of deleting cookies, can be found in the manual of your browser.

Please note, that if you disable the ability to store cookies, we do not guarantee the correct operation of our website in your browser.

We reserve the right to make changes to the cookie usage notice as well as to the cookies themselves and their number at any time and without any additional notice.